DEDICATION

E. C. KIESSLING, Ph.D.

For your interest in our spiritual and intellectual welfare, for your sincere and friendly manner both in and out of class, and for your guidance in the publication of this annual, we the staff dedicate this first issue of the Sprinter to you.

IN MEMORIAM

J. H. OTT, Ph.D. 1861-1945

"I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith." 2 Tim. 4:7

We have tried to make this book a faithful portrayal of life at North-western and a worthy tribute of appreciation to our teachers. May its familiar scenes and faces prove a source of enjoyment and pleasant reminiscence.

TERTIA (Seniors)

Robert Corrigan

Baltimore, Maryland

'Trebor", that lavable, befreckled, red-headed Irishman, is as obstinate as a mule, especially in an argument. His week ends are spent at Madison, and it is thither that most of his letters are also directed, "Red" can bandy words with anyone on any subject, especially history. He is preparing for the Episcopal priesthood. He has played football, first string, since Quinta. This year he was selected as tackle on the all-conference second team. "Red" has also played at Prep basketball since Quinta. With that powerful bass voice of his it's a mystery why he never joined any of the charuses

Orville Degner

Ixonia, Wisconsin

"Orv" went out for football already in Sexta. In Quinta he was playing regular guard. Our apponents soon learned that "Blockbustar Doc" was not to be tritled with. This year he played with the Varsity first team and was coptain of the Tertia class basketball team. The Prep Charus boasts "Doc" as a tenor. His refreshing wit usually presents itself in classes at the "wrong" moments. That's O.K., "Doc", you've brightened many dull moments in the classroom. He points with pride to the fact that he comes from that teeming metropolis of Izania.

Paul Eickmann

Watertown, Wisconsin

Bify", as one of his feminine admirers dubbed him, keeps his hair cut to a mere bristle. "It's more comfortable that way," he says. Sincere and conscientious, Pout is truly the valedictorian of the class. He is also a music lover, especially of the classics, a fine planist, and a first bass in the Prep Chorus. As business manager of the Shrdiu and associate editor of the Sprinter this year, he gave freely of his gifts to both publications. "Ike" is also a sports enthusiast. He plays on the tennis team and his beautiful kickoffs for the prep eleven lost year won him the title of "the man with the educated toa

(Paul E. Eickmann

James Fricke

Wauwatosa, Wisconsin

"Jim" can justly be called the most versatile member of the Tertia class—a composite of athlete, musician, and scholar. He has earned three letters in football and was voted a backfield position on the all-conference first team to "ar. He has also played with the Prep cagers since Sexta. Batters un over the conference have a healthy respect for his pitching ability. "Frick" has added his fine voice to the Prep Charus for four years, is a proficient planist, and also plays the organ for Prep chapet services. An excellent student, he still finds time to edit the Shrdly and serve on the Sprinter staff.

Armin Fuhlbrigge

Coleman, Wisconsin

"fooz" hails from the northern part of the state where the tall trees grow. Rather tall himself, he plays center on the Tertia basketball team and also ranks high in the personal fouls department of the sport. He frequently enjoys a good Schafskopt game but shows a more decided gift for making wood carvings. His leisure time is divided between these two activities. For three years he has sung in the first bass section of the Prep Charus. Armin received the thrill of the year when he sank his teeth into his first post-war cud of

Alfred Hanke

Waukesha, Wisconsin

"Al" has acquired the nicknome "Wavketha" because of that city's great attraction for him. He rarely spends a week-end anywhere else—very likely because of connections at Lutheran High. Along with "Jack" Wegner he forms the nucleus of the Tertia Black Queens Club in this field nothing is allowed to hinder his development—not even studies. His takin translations, too, are rendered most admirably; he belongs to the select circle which has a highly developed system of performing the aforementioned.

William Hein

Reedsburg, Wisconsin

To "Bill" belongs that fascinating smile so popular with the qua-His deep boss voice has been a decided asset to the three musical organizations of which he has been a member: Prep Chorus, Mixed Chorus, and Prep Octet. In Quarta and Tertia 811" played left tackle on the Prep football equad and offered his services this year as center on the Prep basketball leam. 'Bi is an ordent sports fan, following the Green Boy Packers with special Interest. He also likes to tempt Tertioners with his tosty toosted cheese sandwiches.

Carl Huth

Milwaukee, Wisconsin

Cries of "Huth, Huth" are sure to ring out from the entire class whenever voluntary services are called for by a professor. In this way Carl became Prof. Blume's reporter of absentees. He takes all this kidding good naturedly, however. Although sometimes to med a somnolent scholar, Carl s a whiz at math. Carl is always on hand to awaken drawsy classmates with a sizzling hotfoot. He finds pleasant diversion in hunting, playing Schafskopf, and especially in shagging the mail.

Albin Jaeger

Ixonia, Wisconsin

Corn-fed, healthy looking-that's "Rosy" Jaeger. He proudly claims Ixonia for his home town-drives back and forth in his trusty Nash. He has no time for extra-curricular activities, as he enjoys country life and does a good bit of work on his fother's farm. His "Sprachgefuehl" gives Prof. Rohda many wearisome hours, especially when Rosy writes a composition and forgets our man Hagbaldt. way, Albin is a waman hater, but likes animal crackers.

Harold Johne

Racine, Wisconsin

Although Horold seems to write his first name lost, there surely isn't anything else backward about him. Handicapped by a deficiency of Latin and German when he entered in Quinta, "Johnny" accompished with ease the difficult task of making up two years of German and Latin and now is one of the mainstays of our class. Outstanding in all studies, his specialties are moth and the sciences—the laugher, the better. As editor of the Sprinter, Harold's literary talents and organizing ability were of inestimable value. Although he is studying for the ministry, his cullnary concoctions would turn Oscar of the Waldard green with envy.

Doris Jungkuntz

Jefferson, Wisconsin

"Dodo's" coming in Quarta was welcomed by all of us, especially the coads. Her popularity was shown by the fact that she was voted Coad Fresident this year, "Dodo" likes sports. Whether playing herself or cheering for the team, she is all enthusiasm. She works for her room and board at the hospital. To hear her tell it, she really works. Even though unable to spend much time in studying, she is definitely not a dumb dodo in the classroom.

Harold Krentz

Columbus, Wisconsin

'Homer' has no definite plans for the luture, but he can always rely upon Uncle Sam for work. A music lover, he has played the trumpel in the band for four years. Collecting records, especially Strauss waltzes, is also one of his habbies. Almost every afternoon "Homer" can be found at his desk studying. He goes to bed early and rises fresh as a doisy for breakfast every morning. Although well acquainted in Water town, he spends most of his week-ends in Columbus. "Homer's" unique voice is recognizable anywhere.

Dorothy Kuerschner

Watertown, Wisconsin

Dorothy, familiarly known as "Donnie is one of the original coeds of our class. Many think of her as the quiet, studious type, but we who know her better have found her to be full of fun. And don't let that stack of books she carries have deceive you! She is a gifted promit and devotes her energies to the classics, abharring any type of jost or boogle woogle. Donnie has been singing soprano in the Mixed Charus since Sexta.

Paul Kuske

Stratford, Wisconsin

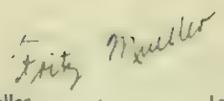

Only sixteen, Paul is the youngest member of the class. He came to Northwestern in Quinta and has been playing football with the Preps ever since. This year he earned the center position on the all-conference second team. His spare time is divided between the Prep Charus, reading, and playing the piono. Paul is a quiet fellow and enjoys solving any kind of tough problem. He gets his daily exercise along with

Lester Messerschmidt

Westfield, Wisconsin

"Les" can truly be roted one of the best students in the class, although it has been rumored that he did get an A— in Latin once. Ever since he joined us in Quinta both the Prep Charus and our intramural leams have benefited by his enthusiastic participation. On the Shidlu staff les has done wonders with his "Grace Notes" column, writing biographical sketches of our professors. First thoughts of having a prep annual originated with him, and as associate editor he is seeing his idea through to the end with unfailing energy. Because of the tangue twisting quality of his name we like to call him "Les." Mass, or "Meschky."

Frederick Mueller

La Crosse, Wisconsin

Although diminutive in stature, "Fritz" played prep football lost fall at second-string right-half—did a mighty fine jab, too. As everyone has come to expect from the scholarly quartette that joined us in Quinta, he is a studious individual. If you have noticed "Fred's" frequent trips across the compus in the direction of the hospital, don't draw any wrong conclusions. Quite regularly he visits his relatives, who live in town off in that direction. "Fritz" rarely goes hame during the school year, but when he does he seems to have trouble remembering an which day school is to resume

Gerald Pankow

Hustisford, Wisconsin

"Jerry", as he is commonly known to his friends, never lacks pep either in the classroom or in athletics. Field general of last year's tootball squad, his husky cries of "Mi-de-hi" coupled with his bang-up play contributed much to the leam's victories. He is also a basketball and baseball player of no mean ability and was the only one to sock a home run on last year's baseball team. Although a possessor of some of the curliest locks you ever saw, he joins Tertia's "Butch" club every spring.

Mildred Pingel

Watertown, Wisconsin

Since this is primarily a boy's school there are naturally few activities for girls. But "Mickey" found an outside Interest—6' 2" and 198 pounds of it. Always outstanding in the classroom, "Mickey" has also served two years on the Shrdiu staff writing its cally cood column. Her literary gifts were used to good advantage in publishing this year's Sprinter. All through her Prep years she has been active in charal work, singing soprano in the Mixed Charus. For a time she was the only cood in our Latin and German classes but came through the ordeal admirably. Thanks for being a good sport, "Mickey"!

Startes Brandon Jal

Elmer Prenzlow

Cornell, Wisconsin

If you should hoppen to see a Russian fur cap coming down the street, the bearer probably will be Elmer. He asserts that the quaint headpiece is an heritoom. Elmer is one of our musically minded students playing plane, organ, and saxophone. Besides playing in the band, he also song four years in the Prep Charus, three years in the Mixed Charus, and two years in the Prep Octot. Driving his bass's car, drawing for the Sprinter, and reading take up most of Elmer's spare time. He is a member of N. W. C's mail carrier force

Arthur Priesz

Milwaukee, Wisconsin

We are all very glad that "Art," formerly a resident of New Ulm, Minn., disregarded Greeley's advice and came east two years ago to join us here at Northwestern. A tall lanky fellow with curly bland hair he usually doesn't say much, but he can be a real wit when he's in the mood. His rugged play at left guard contributed much to last year's tootball victories. "Art's" room, one of the nealest in the dorm, furnishes convincing proof of the efficiency of Prep monitors.

Leonard Reitz

Lebanon, Wisconsin

Although he was born and lived for nine years in western Canada, Len likes the good old U. S. much better. As one of our Concordia converts, "Reets" came to us in Quarta. He song one year with the Mised Charus and, even though he doesn't like to admit it, he possesses a violan. Len is a lover of classical music and hopes some day to acquire a collection of classical recordings. (Contributions will be gladly accepted). He plans to continue his education at Yalparaisa, where he will study engineering

Harvey Rupnow

Oconomowoc, Wisconsin

Harvey is the only male member of the class who has taken the commercial course during all his Prop years. The only hobby he ever started was that of collecting match-books. "Horv's" pastime is sleeping, but not in classes. He takes a nap almost every afternoon. Although living no further away than Cooney, he has slayed in the dorm all four years. Like all normal dorm students, Harv likes to eat. We probably won't have him with us next year, since he is interested in dentistry and hopes to continue his studies in that field

Harry Schoor

Woodland, Wisconsin

"Mandsome" Harry Schoor, as he is known to the fair sex, returned ta Northwestern last fall after a year's obsence due to a serious heart ailment. He's recovered in grand style, though, as was proved by his fine basketboli playing for the Preps this year. It is not entirely surprising that he is very adept at letter writing. Take it easy, Harry, or you may discover that there is more than one disease of the heart!

Eugene Schultz

Libertyville, Illinois

Such a long drink of water! His 6' 5" comes in handy on the basketball. floor. "Euge" showed his athletic attributes already in Quinta. As center he set many a game off to a good start. On the gridiran he filled a difficult spot—that of end. His speed and agility in getting posses made him indispensable in the line. In studying and getting assignments Eugene is the happy medium between a greasy grind and a lazy lug. In the musical aspect of campus life he has been singing second boss in the Prep Chorus since Quarta.

Good Luck Jack

Sturberd Zalow 1.1. Shills

Ferdinand Schultz

Milwaukee, Wisconsin

"T-Z" or Schultz Minor, as he is called to distinguish him from Schultz Major, is the most diminutive member of the class. To make up for his deliciency in stature, he has become an ordent Charles Atlas disciple and exercises faithfully every day. Another ex-Concordian, he will olways be remembered for his singular laugh-"the chemistry class special". To utilize his exuberant spirit to the utmost, he was made a cheerlander and enlivened this season's athletic contasts very much, notably with his rendition of the Harve and Buggy yell,

Donald Sellnow

Neenah, Wisconsin

"Don" is the only Tart oner who can grow a convincing board. Taking up the trumpet in Quarta, his sizzling renditions for the Pop Band have already earned him the appropriate moniker "Hot Lips". "Don" is e student of no mean ability, excelling in English. His literary style, noted for its numerous artful alliterations, was put to good use in the sports sections of both the Shrdlu and the Sprinter. Burning up the courts with his hard driving game, "Don" is co-captain of our lennis team and is also an autstanding figure in all intramural competition.

Philip Strohm

Burlington, Wisconsin

Although he hoils from notorious Burlington, Wisconsin, it is no lie that "Phil" possesses the best physique in the Tertia class. His 6' 2" were used to good advantage on the Prop football leam, where he played at right end for three years. This year "Phil also played an the Prep basketball quintet and received honorable mention in the allconference feam selections. "Phil" possesses all the attributes of a good scholar, with an overdose of modesty. His unprovoked girlish giggles coming at apportune moments, have helped to relieve the tension of

Philotopia

James Thrams

Watertown, Wisconsin

He of the big lough and rosy cheeks is never without anything to say. His remarks are usually quite navel. Besides tarking, his chief delights consist in combing his hair and eating, matted milks being a weakness. He blows his nose with that fog-harn effect. "Jimmy" is not only hat an the trumpet but can do things with the piana. He also lends his skill with the harn to the Pep Band. He has sung second tenor in the Prep Charus since Quarta. It's his secret ambition to be a history professor.

Inez Wahl

Watertown, Wisconsin

thie," with her vivacious, buoyant personality is always bubbling over with pep and has been the spark plug of the entire coed department. She enjoys spending her evenings and Sunday afternoon at home, playing sheepshead. Her pet peeva is the person who approaches her with "Do you have a kid brother who looks just like you?" (He has freckles, too.) Besides singing in the Mixed Charus, "In a " has been typing on the Shrdlu staff since Quarta. She has been correctly termed the "marrying kind". That's why we feel her preparation for a stenographic career has been wasted.

John Wegner

Burlington, Wisconsin

"Jack's" curty, golden locks are the envy of all the girls. They are kept fluffy and fresh looking by vigorous massage—during history class. His hobby is a relates, all shapes, sizes, and models. A visit to his room will make this evident. "Jack's" other interest is in Burlington. This may account for those regular week-end trips home. Much of his spare time is taken up with the cultivation of his game of Schafskopf. John hopes to continue his schooling at Valpo.

Lake Mills, Wisconsin

"Marv," Northwestern's egg man, makes his deliveries once a week and in this way keeps many of the dorm's ravenous residents suppled for their post-bucking-hour "chuckin" sessions". Marvin has been quite active in the school's choral organizations, singing a year in the Mixed Chorus, and four years in the Prep Charus. He started as a boy soprano in Sexta, but somewhere along the line his voice took a lastspin and now we find him singing second bass.

Oconomowoc, Wisconsin

Denny" is a rather quiet at a fellow with a fine crop of curly hair. In spite of his size Dennis has been active in intramurals all through his Prop years. He belongs to that group of fellows who are rarely seen in the dorm during week-ends, being kept doubly busy by working on his parents' form. Friendly and abliging, Dennis greets his friends with a hearty handshake, which gives ample proof of the fact that he eats his Wheaties every morning.

The Mixed Chorus offers one of the few opportunities for coeds to take part in extracurricular activities here at N. W. C. Because of the large influx of girls last fall the Mixed Chorus enjoyed one of its most successful seasons. This group joins with Northwestern's other choral organizations in presenting concerts at Christmas, Easter, and in June.

PREP CHORUS

The youngest of our charuses, under the direction of Prof. Oswald, is at present flour shing with a membership of over fifty. On Tuesday and Friday evenings the chapel resounds with spirited rehearsals. Large and well-pleased audiences through the gym for the sacred concerts presented before Christmas and Easter by the charait organizations. The Prep Charus also takes part in a final concert of secular music given early in June.

The band, under the direction of Prof. Oswald, is one of our favorite musical organizations. Residents of the old darm regularly enjoy a short after dinner concert on Tuesday and Friday afternoons, when the band rehearses. The public also seems to enjoy our band music, as is shown by the fine attendance at concerts given in the gym and at Riverside Park. Two girls, the first feminine members the band has ever had, bravery joined this year. Let's hope there I be more in years to come Enthusiastic stomping of feet and clapping of hands greet the toe tickling ditties of the Pep Band. No basketball or football game would be complete without them. Having their own arranger in the person of front man Bob Dommer, the band specializes in polkas and blues numbers with the accent on "Schwung. The fact that the gym is more than comfortably warm during games may be directly attributed to the heat waves emanating from the torrid trumpet section. Several times the band played while we directly afficiently us with strains of some of their most popular selections, including "Wang Wang Blues", "Down Argentine Way", "I Want My Mama", "The Tiger Rag", and the "Charlotte Harbor Stomp".

PEP BAND

Published once every six weeks, the Shrdlu presents to each of its 175 subscribers a comprehensive view of Prep school activities both on the campus and in the classroom. One of the main objectives of the paper is to encourage students with a definite journalistic bent and to give them necessary experience for further work on the college literary magazine, the Black and Red.

SPRINTER STAFF

The first thoughts of publishing a Prep yearbook were born in a Tertia dormstory built session early in the fail of 1945. News of the proposed annual spread rapidly among other Tert aners and among practically at Prep students as well. Following a student body meeting in which the idea was accepted unanthously, definite and decisive action was taken. Faculty approval was obtained soon after and then work started in earnest. Inexperienced though we are, we, the staff, sincerely hope that with this first values of the Sprinter we shall be able to start a tradition which will be carried on in years to come with ever greater success.

A GLANCE AT THE '45 SEASON

Gridiran glory, that oft sought but little realized mark of achievement, again shone down with a smilling countenance on the Prep's pigskin powerhouse during the '45 campaign. Although Dame Fortune turned her back on the Red and White repeatedly, the undaunted spirit of the Schumann-coached juggernaut was always driving the Preps on to greater heights. Desp'te heavy iosses sustained through graduation, there were always eleven rough, rugged, ready representatives of the Prep department on the field, willing and able to give their all for good old N.W.C. The results of this admirable, never say die spirit can be seen throughout the season's play, the first season in Prep history that the Red and White football warriors have been in any conference.

The Preps started the season with a bang as they rolled over Lake Geneva, 21-13. But the following Saturday a group of mournful spectators watched the same team crumbie before an inferior Wayland eleven. Although the scoreboard showed Wayland 13—Preps 7, the Red and White should have had this encounter tucked away in their back pockets by the end of the first half, but they failed to take advantage of the many breaks that came their way early in the contest and fell short in a last minute rally. Incensed by their defeat, the first in three years, the Red and White massacred a weak, inexperienced Eutheran High combine, racking up thirty seven points to seven for their victims, and the following week they took a non-conference till from St. John's by a 15.7 score. Then disaster struck the Preps at M. U. S., for they not only lost the game, thus banishing all hope for a part of the crown, but lost "I'm" Fricke, stellar left half, via the injury route. 20.0 was the score of the encounter, and the Preps didn't even get a smell after Fricke left the field on the drooping shoulders of his disheartened teammates. Country Day was coming to the college gridiron the following week, and the big Green and Yellow outfit was riding high, undefeated and untied during the season's play. Given as little chance to win over their supposedly superior adversaries as the turtle over the hare, the Red and White went on a rampage, played red hot bal, and roared to a thril packed, nerve wracking last second victory, 20-19, as "Don" Bitter, the best ballplayer on either team, crossed the enemy's goal line with but four seconds left in the contest. Thus the Preps ended a season in which they had their ups and downs but in which they rose to the occasion in the final game to prove they were made of championship stuff.

All the boys played swell ball and except for a few lapses looked as good as any team in the league and better. They finished in second place under their coach, Butch Schumann, who took over the Prep horde to help relieve Coach Umnus of his many fall duties. Hammering "Herman" Fricke, the Wauwatosa wonder, was selected on the first all conference team, "Red" Corrigan, versatile lineman, and Paul Kuske, the guy with the guts that played center for three years, took over positions on the second all-conference eleven. So with the passing of another football season passed a galaxy of stars never to be forgotten in Prepicicles as guys that could really move the pigskin up and down a field. Our hats are off to an undaunted, fighting, never-say-die Prepisquad!

Weakened tremendously in key positions through the graduation of last year's hardwood hotshots, an inexperienced Prep quintet played with dogged perseverance throughout a mediocre '45-'46 basketball season. Although the Red and White five was hot and cold throughout its campaign, the great improvement that manifested itself during the course of the Prep contests was truly gratifying. The won and lost calumn showed three and six, respectively, in conference games, but these figures are not entirely representative of the fighting Preps. Only twice were the Red and White handed overwhelming defeats, once by Lake Mills and the second time by the inimitable 'Fritz' Schneider and Co. from Country Day. All the other contests were close enough to have gone either way, so that, although they came out at the bottom of the conference on paper, the Umnus coached combine played admirable ball and with a few more breaks could have been right up on top.

"Jim" Fricke, forward: Another three letter winner, "Herman" was a handy guy to have around on a fast break. Always fighting and popping away southpaw style, the Prep's diminutive captain was forever getting in the opposition's hair.

Bob Corrigan, forward: "Red", a holdover from the past two seasons, broke into the limelight as a regular on this year's quintet. "Trebor's" rugged style of play was really samething to behold.

"Phil" Strohm, guard: "Tarzan", "Muscles", "Adam", cali him what you like, the Prep's bruising rebound artist played the kind of ball that got him an honorable mention on the conference all-star squad. Although he didn't set any scoring records, he pumped the pill through the old iron doughnut consistently and had a desirable shooting average.

"Don" Bitter, guard: Quarta's tone representative on the first five was one of the best defensive men in the league. His ever present hands and nimble feet spelled disaster for more than one unwary opponent.

Harry Schoor, forward: "Nick" showed the way for the Prep's early in the campaign, and his ever dangerous, one-handed push shot was an asset well worth having throughout the entire season.

With the arrival of Prof. T. W. Severt our new instructor in the commercial courses, tennis has come to Northwestern in a manner befitting the builder of champions. The enthusiasm and keen interest that have been aroused by the new tennis coach are due not only to Coach Severt's admirable record of having produced eight conference and two state championship teams while serving as tennis instructor at Oshkosh, his former position but are also in a large measure due to his friendly straightforward manner and his indisputable ability to teach tennis. Regular practice sessions began indoors early in March. With the advent of warm spring weather the team took to the outdoor courts. Matches have been and are being scheduled with various conference and non-conference teams, and it looks as though there are many happy hours of good hard work and enjoyable play ahead for the Prep racket wielders. Although there are only two veterans back from last year's squad, Coach Sievert can be counted on to give his eager cand dates ample apportunity and sound indoctrination in acquiring the correct art of praying tennis, a sport which can stand up to any other that exists.

THE ATHLETIC HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF '46

To list in full all the many athletic accomplishments of the Tertial class of 46 on one small page would be impossible but we shall try to give our readers a comprehensive survey of what prodig ous feats our crack contenders in N. W. C. s world of sports accomplished in four short years.

SEXTA. Our domination of the Prep oth etic picture began away back in the fall of '42 as we placed three men on the undefeated football squad. Our intramural team gove a good account of itself in the touch football squad, and our volleyball team copped second place in the Prep league Kittenbal was our meat, and we ran away with the title. One, 46er won a place on a combined Prep-Collegiate tennis team.

QUINTA Of the eleven regulars on the plaskin powerhouse for 43 six were members of our illustrious class. Eve other of our graders gave the undefeated, untied Red and Write steamroller invaluable reserve strength. Our louch football team was undefeated and listed a 72 0 drubbing of Sexta among its long list of victories. Eve men won positions on a fast breaking basketball squad two of them making the first team. Our intramural basketball team again took second place in the Prep league, and the six spiking sits from the class of 46 duplicated the hardwood hoopsters per formance by copping the runner up spot in volleyball competition. We continued to rule as kitten ball kings, and it was the hard hitting men from our class that formed the backbone of the newly organized Prep baseball squad. This year two of our racket wie ders won places on an undefeated Prep tennis squad.

QUARTA Another arring juggernaut composed of almost a i of the '43 letter winners ran roughshod over all opponents and it was again 46ers that supplied over half the punch that carried the all victorious Prep football squad through its most successful season in many years. Our intramural team, pretty well drained of tolent by contributions to the vorsity squad, performed admirably and copped second place in the touch football league. Again we placed the men on the basketball team, which this year took third place in the conference and placed ane man on the conference all star quintet. Our class team took over the runner up spat for the third consecutive year. Rivalry in the volleybal race was fast and fur ous, and we were barely edged out of the championship. The kittenball crown remained in our possession and our soft bailers were barely mosed out of the school championship by the Juniors. Baseball flourished in its second full season as fifty per cent of the ball club was of '46er stock. The tennis team enjoyed another terrific season, winning seven out of eight matches, and the same duo won positions on a four mon squad.

TERTIA In addition to what has a ready been said of the various varsity teams in this section of the Sprinter', we should also like to mention briefly the highlights of this year's intramural competition. Our football squad, too powerful for play in the Prep league, was placed in the Coileg ate league, where it finished in third place. Our basketball quinter breezed through a lintramural opposition and grabbed the title. Our entrants in the Coilegrate volleybail league played 500 bail, and our aspirants in the Prep league captured the crown. At the time of this writing, competition has not yet begun in either basebail or kittenbal, but we're sure that the class of 46 will garner as many honors this year as it has niprevious years.

In closing we should like to pay tribute to the athletes of the class of 46 whose excellence on griding and diamond, on courts inside and out, has brought honor to N.W.C. To all of them, too many and too great to be treated justly in these few short lines, we give the laurel wreath of distinction for their clean play and fine spirit, and may they show the way to enjoyable sport and abiding fame in the passing parade of Prep athletics.
